SECTION I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Organization Description

The Charter High School for Architecture + Design (CHAD) was organized by The American Institute of Architects (AIA) Philadelphia as the chapter's Legacy Project for hosting the AIA's 2000 National Conference. CHAD is located at 675 Sansom Street, Philadelphia, PA. CHAD served 577 students in grades 9 through 12 residing in the City of Philadelphia and surrounding suburbs. The school remained organized into two self-contained and self-governing Houses. The Houses are on separate floors of the school building and are managed by independent leadership communities. As we evaluate this system and plan for the 2008-2009 school year, we have determined that the "universal" school functions should be fulfilled by a school-wide administrative staff. The school's curriculum was driven by a block-scheduling system. Students' course of study focused on the State required core subjects and the specialization component of our school - Design. As a result of a faculty and student body that are uniquely talented and an organizational system that maximizes our resources, we experience our highest college placement rate of 97%.

Core Purpose

Mission

The Charter High School for Architecture + Design is a learning community committed to providing an innovative program of study that integrates the design process with the mastery of a strong liberal arts education. The school offers each student the opportunity for success and the preparation for life-long learning and responsible citizenship. CHAD is a thoughtful academic environment that engenders a love of learning, intellectual curiosity, and new ways of seeing, while preparing students for higher education.

Vision

Academic:

CHAD teachers strive to create dynamic, student-centered classrooms in which democratic principles thrive. Our fluid curriculum is authentic: it reflects the real world, responds to our students' interests and lives, and prepares them to be active, life-long learners. Our teaching is shaped by varied and valid assessments. We ask students to transform problems into possibilities. Assessments are used to inform student self-reflection and teacher instruction. Through differentiated instruction, each child is both nurtured and challenged to continually reach for and expand his or her own potential. We enrich students' intellectual growth through process and skill-oriented learning. Students are asked to be accountable for the quality and integrity of their academic endeavors. We demand active participation, clear expression, sophisticated thinking, and high-level work from the members of our community.

Relationships:

CHAD's community of learners engages in relationships that further personal and intellectual growth. This process of growing and learning is rooted in individual self-discovery, cooperation, and mutual respect. CHAD students share ideas and sharpen their skills under the guidance of a creative and dedicated faculty. Students engage one another and their teachers in a conversation that is the essence of learning. One of the hallmarks of a CHAD education is the teachers' commitment to the personal growth of each student. At CHAD, each student has the personal support of an advisory teacher who monitors that student's progress and offers guidance in developing a rewarding academic identity. Knowing students as individuals, teachers encourage them to reflect, develop skills, take risks, and follow a passion. CHAD affirms the importance of the student-teacher-parent relationship. Students, teachers, and parents work together to create an exchange between school and home, making the student's journey of self-discovery more comprehensive.

Ownership:

CHAD emphasizes a student's active commitment to a personal educational process.

Students are asked to explore, discover, and use their voices. The responsive nature of our instructors and curriculum facilitates student development of identity and self-confidence. Curiosity guides students as they navigate through classroom curriculum, deepening their skills and sense of self. Invested in their learning, students produce work that reflects their sense of integrity and gives power to their voice. Students share and celebrate their successes with the school community. Encouraged to view their achievements with both pride and humility, CHAD students are asked to reflect on and use their achievements for further growth. In an atmosphere of high expectations and general support, students develop a rigorous work ethic that is commensurate with the strength of their voice. Our practices place CHAD students in a position to go forward as independent, responsible, and self-directed learners.

Design:

CHAD emphasizes the use of the design process across the curriculum as a vehicle for creative and analytical thinking. CHAD's program provides students with the opportunity to understand the design process through creative and disciplined exploration. Important to this process are studio activities that involve structured investigation, self-reflection, critique, aesthetics, historical context, and multiculturalism. CHAD builds the confidence needed to explore problems, take risks, and turn challenges into numerous possibilities. Students learn to design in response to both the user and the environment.

Shared Values

See Statement of Philosophy above.

Academic Standards

In as much as the Charter High School for Architecture + Design's (CHAD) curriculum is college preparatory, all students are scheduled for a full school day, which, in addition to instruction, may include mentoring, internship and community service.

CHAD shall award a high school diploma to every student who meets the requirements for graduation. Such requirements shall include the successful completion of courses of study for a four-year high school and which meet the standards set by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Academic Standards, laws and regulations.

English - 5 credits
Social Studies - 4 credits
Foreign Language - 2 credits
Physical Education/Health 1.5 credits
Computer Application 1 credit
Mathematics - 6 credits
Science - 4 credits
Design - 8 credits

In addition to the core credit requirements as stated above, students may also be required to complete and pass elective/workshop courses as rostered within a student's schedule.

In addition to satisfying credit requirements, students must also complete and properly document thirty (30) community service hours, per year, as approved by school officials. At the end of each year, a community service reflection project and paper will be required to earn full community service credit.

Strengths and Challenges

A key strength of the CHAD program is the design education and in and out of school experiences it provides to students. The mentoring component of our program has included the ACE Mentoring program, CHAD Builders and professional placement opportunities. These programs begin to offer students real-world familiarity. Students quickly become knowledgeable and comfortable with the professional work environment, its expectations, value system, etc. For the 07-08 school year, a full-time college advisor assisted in placing 97% of our seniors into post-secondary institutions. A full array of college preparatory classes, including remedial work (for students who continue to need academic support) are offered. We have continued to make significant progress in Technology—surpassing our goal—and in a Portfolio Preparation Program for all students.

The key area in need of improvement is student ability to master the basics and meet all NCLB standards. In 07-08, Writing proficiency continued to improve for all students. However, 55% scored below proficiency in Reading and 74% score below proficiency in Mathematics. We failed to meet the thresholds required under State and Federal expectations. We expect to improve significantly in 08-09 and have addressed our teaching, remediation/tutoring and curriculum accordingly.

SECTION II. STRATEGIC IMPROVEMENT PLANNING

Strategic Planning Process

The development of CHAD's Strategic Plan has taken place over a long period of time and has involved many members of the school community. The first step in the Strategic Plan was a school-wide retreat. Attending were representatives of the Board, Faculty, Administration, students and parents. The retreat addressed CHAD's Mission Statement and overall goals. As a result of this retreat, a Strategic Planning Committee, consisting of a number of Board Members and the School's Principal, was established.

A second school-wide retreat was held. At this retreat, which also enjoyed broad participation from the school community, a "mindmap" of trends, issues and developments was developed and retreat participants identified priorities. Small groups developed their vision of a preferred future for CHAD.

A third school-wide retreat was held. Participants focused on elements of the Strategic Plan and developed specific suggestions for selected elements of the Plan. Following the retreat, a "working draft" of the Strategic Plan was developed and circulated within the School community. The Mission Statement was adopted by the Board at a subsequent meeting.

A fourth all-school retreat was held. This retreat focused on the key issue of the School's curriculum and attempted to establish priorities among the various actions that were part of the Strategic Plan's "working draft."

Architecture and Design CHS - Charter Annual Report

The retreats served as valuable input for the Strategic Planning Committee, who held the responsibility for drafting the plan. In general, the committee followed these steps in preparing the Strategic Plan.

Step 1: Collect & Review examples of Strategic Plans, particularly from other schools.

Step 2: Identify the “Elements” to be included in the Plan.

Step 3: Assess Existing Conditions Re: each element.

Step 4: Draft a Mission Statement and Identify Goals for the next 3 years for each element of the plan.

Step 5: Identify Strategies and Actions to meet the Goals.

Step 6: Prepare a Draft of the Strategic Plan.

Step 7: Circulate, Review and Revise the Draft.

Step 8: Submit Revised Draft Plan for Adoption by the Board.

The Strategic Plan (2002) and the The Strategic Plan update (2006-07) are two documents of enormous importance to CHAD and CHAD’s institutional memory. The two documents taken together, form an excellent foundation for a new strategic plan, one that is conceptualized and crafted differently. This new strategic plan was executed in the 07-08 school year will focus on six elements.

- I. Academic program and Curriculum
- II. Leadership
- III. Size and scale
- IV. Faculty
- V. Facilities
- VI. Communications

Goal: Needs Assessment

Description: In preparation for this review we have taken a hard look at prior strategic and technology reports. It is clear that we have made much progress and have met many of our goals. It is also clear that technology has moved in directions that has caught many by surprise.

The Internet has created opportunities and demand in all aspects of our life. From online banking to youtube and ipods "digital" has permeated our lives. The demand for images, videos, music and content in general is just as strong in academics as it is in home usage.

This report will show progress in many areas to include, laptops, wireless internet, Smart Boards, distance learning, Macs and PCs and more. At the same time that we create accomplishments we also created need. The report will primarily focus on accomplishments however it is prudent to be honest and present areas where we are or will be in need of support.

What developments in technology have emerged that you can take advantage of to improve education for your school or community?

Technology can be used to support student achievement by providing access to learning resources. Distance learning including Real Time Video Conferencing and Previously Recorded sessions can provide specialized instruction that would otherwise not be accessible to all students during school hours. Web based learning allows students to access research information from libraries, agencies, search engines and databases in a timely and efficient way. Currently, our 9th and 10th grade students use APEX, which is a web based interactive software for mathematics. It delivers a personalized study plan tailored to every student's strengths and weaknesses. Simulation software can be used to supplement science and humanities courses to promote exploration and encourage students to work in teams and help with problem solving. It is increasingly apparent that having desk printers in all classrooms and projectors in many is a necessity. Having printers in classrooms eliminated many classroom management issues and provided an immediate feedback to students and teachers. Students are more focused on learning because they do not have to leave the room to retrieve their printouts. Currently we have one Smart Board in a PC Computer Lab, which is used throughout the day but not to its full capacity. Teacher training is a key component to using technology to the fullest extent. There is a tremendous interest among teachers to use the Smart Board technology and we see a need to purchase two more. We have almost no budget for technology staff training. Thus items such as Smart Boards and Distance Learning most likely are not used to their full potential. After the Tech Staff is trained sometimes at cost through professional development we need to train our staff. This can be done by the tech team teaching the staff or by bringing in outside vendors that are subject matter experts in these areas.

MAPS, Measures of Academic Progress, is a computer-based software that we use to identify students' academic level for appropriate course placement. It is also used to monitor student growth over time and to determine students proficiency in different academic areas twice yearly.

How do you identify potentially useful new technologies?

Current planning efforts will continue to expand its technology by networking with peers, attending professional conferences, such as NYSAIS Conference attended by the Technology Director, attending Apple Certifications programs, subscribing to professional publications such as "American School Board Journal" and "The Journal-Transforming Education Through Technology". By securing one e-Rate award we work closely with several vendors, Micro Technology Group, UCombination, and LineCom. These vendors provide service to other public and private schools in the area and they can provide valuable guidance and advice. We have special needs in the sense that we need to perform as well as all other schools in academic areas and we need to teach Architecture and Design skills in addition to that. We have implemented an All School Reading Program where our students solely focus on improving their reading comprehension for forty minutes everyday. Through our unique curriculum our students learn how to develop a concept, design, execute, implement, evaluate and improve upon an idea. As a school for visual learners it is necessary to provide our teachers with the necessary hardware and software to accomplish their goals. In the effort to support our academic, design and special education teachers we feel we need the following hardware so our students can thrive in a Digital Age:

2 Mobile Laptop carts

15 Video projectors for classrooms

2 larger poster-plotter printers for architectural drawings and artwork

Video Editing Computers

Cameras (Video and photographic)

Classrooms need audio systems so web content can be heard

Projection screens for classrooms to receive images from video projectors

2 Smartboards for the Learning Centers

Computer desks to replace the plastic folding tables

1 RAID for storing and archiving our growing collection of student work

What strengths and weaknesses related to technology have been identified by staff, students, or parents?

Technology can be used to support community development by implementing strategies that encourages increased interaction with parents, community members, organizations, and other agencies. To promote parent involvement a Power School Portal was made available so parents can stay up to date with grades, homework assignments, attendance, teacher comments, and daily school bulletin. This new initiative is extremely popular among parents and it received positive reviews. Currently, one problem area that exists involves recreational use of computers. As our students become more proficient with technology, recreational use of computers (i.e myspace.com. youtube.com) is becoming a problem because it impacts the bandwidth usage. It is a distraction and takes away from student learning. We are currently using two main software packages that are at least four years old, Microsoft Office and Adobe products. The Adobe software was donated by Adobe over four years ago and now they have cut back on their outreach efforts. We currently need $7000 for the Adobe CS3 Creative Suite. We need to upgrade Microsoft Office as well.

Staffing is by far our biggest area of need. In some way we have use labor funds to purchase equipment. Both our Technology Director and Helpdesk Technician can only be funded part time. We need to increase our support staff to maintain what we have and to position us for continues growth and adaptation as technology changes.

Goal: Technology Goals, Strategies and Activities

Description: As a 9 through 12 school has two main educational concerns that drive our curriculum and thus technology. These are 1) remediation of students, especially 9th graders where many come to us with 7th grade skills in varies subject areas and 2) making sure that we meet and succeed in areas related to AYP and PSAT.

We believe we have a strong strategy in place because we made significant changes to our methodology in the 07-08 school year. We have implemented MAPS testing (an online system that provides each student with a personal evaluation in Math and English) we have implemented APEX digital Math (an internet based math program to teach and remediate and keep track of individual progress), we have dedicated ourselves to Powerschool and now put weekly assignments online and opened the Parent Portal so that parents can see assignments, attendance, and in general see the student "position" on an on going basis.

In an effort to support and meet these curricular efforts we have adjusted our technology program. As elaborated below we have added two additional T1 lines to handle images, sound, video and distance learning, added a webserver for hosting our own website and will add an intranet for 7/24/365 access to course materials, added distance learning via a company called Spiderweb who has established bases in China, Europe and the US. In addition, we have increased laptop usage, video projectors, wireless internet, and installed our first Smart Board. We now call our computer labs — Learning Centers and because we have the 1st and 4th floor in our building we have divided the school into grades 9 & 10 on the 1st floor and 11 & 12 on the 4th floor . Each floor has 1 Mac and 1 PC Learning Center. We have also moved to a block schedule so that students have more time in each academic area, including technology education which is taught through our Design Department and has a dedicated Technology Coordinator.

One of our biggest areas of need now is funding to maintain the growth that we have managed. This includes the need for staff (our Helpdesk Technician and Technology Director are only funded for part-time) and we need to implement a more robust Faculty Training Program. On the Hardware side maintaining all this new infrastructure takes time which translates into staff hours or purchasing outside services. Growth is also a concern, there are program areas that we would like to expand on such as White Board Technology and Distance Learning.

What goals have you identified in your strategic plan?

As stated in the prior strategic plan our challenges included technology costs, replacement of equipment originally purchased prior to the school opening and then reassembling and maintaining used computers to begin to make a dependable system. The original plan indicated some issues the school must address including management of the system, security (both theft and usage), implementing basic computer skills training and incorporation of available technology into the curriculum, mainly on the software and instructional side.

What accompanying strategies and activities have already been identified to reach those goals? Over the last few years we have:

Sought after and successfully found some supplementary sources of funding — to include a 35K Math grant and the 2005 e-Rate award, 10K PNC grant, and software donation from Adobe and AutoDesk. When the school first opened nine years ago, 25 new computers were stolen and our program was set back. To re-group we purchased used Compaqs and Dells. These computers served us well but were limited in processor and RAM (memory) capacity. As internet usage grew of the years to allow for image, video and music transfer and streaming these computers did not function well. Through leasing, some grants and fiscal planning over the last two years we have been able to replace these computers with 75 iMacs and 65 Dells, 15 video projectors and 30 printers, (one for each classroom). Additionally, leased 25 laptops for faculty.

The faculty laptops have opened the door to better lesson plans, usage of Powerpoint and Internet in the classroom via video projectors.

What additional strategies and activities are needed to attain these goals?

Implementation of Distance Learning (real time and pre-recorded), begin to utilize "Smartboard Technology", Installed internet content filters and faculty training.

What specific telecommunications and information technologies (such as access to the Internet, access to remote databases, distance learning, etc.) are useful in helping you reach those goals? We have increased to three T1 lines because the demand for viewing of images and video based content is necessary. We hope to use distance learning both to look at content and talk with subject matter experts in real time but also to store previously recorded lessons for remedial usage and test and homework assistance. This can also be done of the web and we have already begun to set up an in-house webserver provided by e-Rate funds to host a local intranet for web based storage and delivery of class materials that students can access at home via the web.

What are the specific resources (e.g., trainers, selected curricular software., Internet access, links to subscribed databases, etc.) that you plan to help reach your goals for improved teaching and learning?

We moved to a project based technology system at our school. We have begun to assign technology goals/projects to each of three distinct time periods for the year, the summer (June to August), the fall (Sept to January) and the spring (January to June). This helps us not lose sight of the large picture of where we want to move the school.

We have a Helpdesk Technician, a Technology Coordinator for the Design Department and a person dedicated to Powerschool for attendance, grades and report cards. We are trying to keep these staff members focused on their respective areas and have the Technology Director focus on two or three larger issues per time period.

This past summer we built from the ground up 2 PC labs, 2 Macs, lab and added fiber to our internet backbone. This fall we are focusing on distance learning, Smart Board technology and designing a more focused Faculty Training program. In the Spring we will implement the Faculty Training program to make sure that our teachers have the skills and confidence to use Smart Boards and Distance Learning. We hope to add two more Smart Boards this spring.

SECTION III. QUALITY OF SCHOOL DESIGN

Rigorous Instructional Program

Teachers received a binder containing the approved and proposed high school standards distributed by the Pennsylvania Department of Education. During staff development sessions, administrators and department chairpersons worked with faculty to review and align standards to the coursework taught. Where no standards exist, such as in Design, we have developed our own, based on the expectations of the college and universities our students will attend. During the past school year, curriculum was revised in all instructional areas to ensure that this objective is met. Curriculum revision continued with special emphasis on Mathematics and continuing emphasis on English reading and writing.

As in the previous year, students with more ability were afforded an opportunity to receive challenging instruction in all curricular areas. We continued both formal and informal faculty after school tutoring and our new National Honor Society members provided additional tutoring support. All students have opportunities for success and each child who attends CHAD can move into more challenging instructional settings when competency has been demonstrated.

Class visitations and observations, weekly department meetings, monthly plenary sessions for all faculty ensured a seriousness of purpose to improve instructional techniques and the delivery of the curriculum. We are continuing to address individual learning styles as specifically as we can. We kept our "CHAD Skills Book" up-to-date, required all students to participate in an all-school reading initiative and we continued to closely monitor classroom performance and pedagogical practices in the context of that state standards.

The Charter High School for Architecture Design acknowledges the need to address the performance of students who come to us with significantly deficient competencies in literacy and mathematics skills. Writing is an important part of our every day instruction and all teachers are inspired to include mathematics and reading for understanding exercises throughout the curriculum. We encouraged teachers to provide additional tutoring and have funded a program to ensure that this will happen. We are much more engaged to the importance of meeting NCLB standards and how critical it is to more fully prepare students for the tests. Thus, we are using the MAP program as a “pre-test.” We have created and implemented other strategies including very specific vocabulary development. We are doing everything we can to raise student standards AND student performance on standard tests.

Many teaching strategies are used to actively engage students in the learning process. Manipulatives are used in all curricular areas and teachers are encouraged to lecture less frequently and provide instructional strategies that allow students to explore, investigate, think critically, design projects, teach others, compare and contrast, compose, invent as well as conclude and support, criticize with reason and justify positions.

CHAD continues to use the "Design Process" to inform its curriculum: (1) Identify; (2) Imagine; (3) Develop; (4) Execute; and (5) Evaluate.

Special Education

Children are referred through teachers, parents, special education staff, and regular staff to the child study team when the child is having problems learning in the general education setting. The child study team will meet to develop interventions that may include such things as extra time taking tests, tutoring sessions, repetition of basic skills, etc. for a period of at least two weeks. Parents are notified so that they may be involved in the process. During that time, students are monitored and progress is documented. The child study team then reconvenes, after this defined time, to discuss progress and decide whether or not a referral should be made for psycho educational evaluation.

Before the psycho educational evaluation is conducted, parents are contacted to obtain permission for the evaluation and to acquire pertinent background information. If an evaluation is warranted, the psychologist comes to the school to evaluate the student. Teachers' complete classroom based assessments and special education staff complete classroom observations. Parent interviews are conducted. All information is compiled into an Evaluation Report and the IEP team meets to discuss and review to determine if the student is eligible to received special education services. If the student is found to have a disability, the IEP team compiles an Individualized Education Plan for the student at the IEP meeting.

Sometimes students need learning support classes, which focus on basic skills in both reading and math. We also have scheduled study hall classes taught by a special education teacher, which focus on test taking strategies, study skills and extra tutoring in all subjects. This instruction and support is made in the classroom to included extended time on tasks, directions, which are read aloud, practice and repetition, peer tutoring, etc. Most students come to the learning support classroom to take both standardized and school wide assessments when extended time or reading questions aloud is needed. We have a small intimate program with many opportunities for the special attention necessary to foster independence.

Student Assessment

The most immediate imperative for CHAD continues to be to improve Math and Reading proficiency and comprehension. In all four grades (9-12), the school moved to a more aggressive daily Math and English schedule, including 80-minute instructional blocks, a changed curriculum and new departmental leadership and the appointment of additional Master Teachers in Math. We used the Measure of Academic Progress (MAP) program which we administered locally and this helped us enormously in identifying both student profiles and corrective strategies. CHAD tests ALL its students two times per school year with the MAP instruments and we are now in our third year of this initiative. Consequently, we are becoming much more sophisticated in our analysis and applications.

At CHAD, we understand and enthusiastically endorse the value of the NCLB assessments because the assessments present ambitious goals, goals which we can embrace without having to "teach to the tests." Because of what we are learning from PSSA and MAP results, we have begun to make radical adjustments in our curriculum and in the time we spend in the classroom with our students.

Because CHAD is a school of two Houses, we are able to monitor academic progress and status much more carefully; we have intervention and tutoring programs; we have a Wednesday "check-in Day" in all classes which allows us to identify the difficulties/struggles of individual students. Most of all, we have become acute observers and we are quick to intervene when we even "sense" difficulty for an individual student.

Teacher Evaluation

Recognizing that the teacher is the single most important factor in the educational process, teacher evaluation is a priority. Teachers are evaluated and reviewed on overall competency and pupil progress, as demonstrated by formal full-period assessments, written mini-observations and student portfolios (when appropriate). All teachers have received the following documents:

Basic Professional Responsibilities

Instructional Techniques in classroom management, teacher/pupil relationships and general instruction

Annual Summary

Growth Plan prompts

For 2007-2008, CHAD faculty were reviewed by Peer Teams and each Team was headed by a Senior Administrator. The goal was constructive review and specific forward progress, using "Growth Plans." The foundational elements were six: (1) Teaching CRAFT; (2) Teaching KNOWLEDGE of discipline; (3) Teaching TRAINING and EXPERIENCE; (4) Teaching CHARACTER and SERVICE; (5) Teaching BEHAVIOR (s); and (6) Teaching CERTIFICATION.

Peter Kountz - CEO/Head of School

Stephanie Schoening - Principal

For 2007-2008, the Senior administrators (above) met regularly with the Faculty Development personnel and mentors and discussed assigned readings on the six rubrics (above) and how to lead the Peer Review teams. In a number of ways, the whole process was quite successful in that we have seen progress, we have seen appropriate departures of faculty members who do not meet our standards, and we have put other faculty on a "need for improvement" notice. Additionally, by building and nurturing faculty teams for grade sets (Lower House- grades 9 & 10); Upper House - grades 11 & 12), we have been able to focus much more on--and support-- individual student success.

All board meetings are advertised in advance as required by the Sunshine Law in the Philadelphia Daily News.

Coordination of the Governance and Management of the School

The Board of Trustees has a good relationship with the School District of Philadelphia. Regular communication with the Charter School Office ensures that all expectations are met and concerns addressed. The chartering school district is invited to visit CHAD each year and these visits have cemented a positive and constructive relationship.

Board of Trustees Meeting Schedule

The Board of Trustees will meet at CHAD on the fourth Wednesday of every other month at 5:00 pm. All items to be included on the monthly agenda or resolutions to be adopted must be

SECTION VI. FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITIES

Major fund-raising activities

The school conducts fundraising through out the year culminating with a major event at graduation. Similar fundraising is planned for the current school year.

Fiscal Solvency Policies

The Board of Trustees has adopted financial policies and procedures which include the topics - budgeting, accounting practices, procurement, contracts, internal control, cash management, grants management, time and attendance, contracted services, etc.

The school's budget, adopted in accordance with the timetable prescribed by the Commonwealth, serves as a blue print for financial decision making during the fiscal year. The budget provides for the educational, building and administrative needs of the school community and also includes a reserve for contingencies. All purchases and personnel decisions are reviewed for budgetary funds available prior to the issuance of a contract or purchase order.

The business office provides interim financial reporting for the board of trustees and CEO on a monthly basis. The business manager meets with the school administrative team regularly and attends all board and finance committee meetings. Through careful monitoring of expenditures and revenues the school is able to assure that all expenditure and revenue categories remain within budget.

Accounting System

The accounting system is Quickbooks and is loaded with the State Chart of Accounts. Transactions are posted by the Business Manager's Office staffed by experienced school business administrators. Staff turnover is generally low. Twenty five of thirty-two teachers will return for the 2007-08. All were offered contracts, with the exception of one teacher who left involuntarily. With respect to voluntary departures, one teacher was offered a teaching position in South America, another teacher earned a Principal Certificate and pursued a Principal's position elsewhere (did not have an opening). One of our science teachers returned to school to pursue a career in the medical profession. Three of our teachers became first-time parents over the summer and chose to stay home and one teacher accepted a position to teach in a private school. Most teachers choose to stay because they are valued and supported and the school is a hospitable place to work.

Total certified staff for 2006-2007 was 75%. In this number, 80% are fully certified presently and 20% have Emergency Certificates and are working to earn full certification. We meet the 75% certification requirement and will always have difficulty reaching 100% certified staff. Architects and designers we hire often do not have a formal teaching background. We reserve the 25% largely to accommodate these teachers.

Student Enrollment

All students who express an interest in the design program and other curricular offerings are encouraged to submit applications to demonstrate their interest in our school. The school complies with state and charter school law. Each year we advertise a lottery date. Rolling admission continues until we reach full enrollment. Students who desire to attend, after full enrollment has been met, are placed in a "waiting pool" and are offered acceptance based "slots" they may become available.

We finished the 2007-08 school year with the following:

- Grade 9 - 149 students
- Grade 10 - 121 students
- Grade 11 - 142 students

Grade 12 - 135 students

Over the course of the year we had 22 students who dropped from our roles:

Grade 9 - 2 students dropped
Grade 10 - 9 students dropped
Grade 11 - 9 students dropped
Grade 12 - 2 students dropped

As students dropped/vountarily left, we filled the spot with students in our waiting pool. For example, when a sophomore student left, we place a sophomore student in the slot.

Two sophomore students were expelled.

Kindergarten is not offered.

Transportation

In the 2007-2008 school year, we continued our participation with Philadelphia School District's plan of offering free public transportation transpasses to eligible students.

Food Service Program

The Philadelphia School District manages our lunch program, which does participate in the Free and Reduced Lunch program.

Student Conduct

An effective instructional program requires an orderly environment in which students and employees know and abide by reasonable standards of socially acceptable behavior and respect the rights, person and property of others. Sexual Harassment:

The school recognizes that harassment on the basis of sex is a violation of both federal and state discrimination laws and that these laws apply to employees and students. The school will provide a learning environment free from sexual harassment and will not tolerate such conduct on the part of any student and/or employee.

Definitions:

A. Sexual harassment consists of unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when:

The administration will promptly investigate any complaints of sexual harassment, and will take appropriate corrective action when deemed necessary. No individual will suffer reprisals for reporting any incidents of sexual harassment or making any complaints.

Any individual who is found to be responsible for sexual harassment will be subject to appropriate discipline; the severity of the disciplinary action will be based upon the circumstances of the infraction and could include termination of employment or suspension or expulsion from school.

Firearms, Weapons, and dangerous Instruments:

CHAD prohibits the possession and/or use of firearms, weapons, deadly weapons or dangerous instruments on school property, on a school vehicle, at any school function, or while en route to or from school, or any school function.

A student found or observed on any school property, on a school vehicle or at a school-sponsored event in possession of a firearm, weapon, deadly weapon or dangerous instrument shall be reported to the Head of School/designee immediately. The Head of School/designee shall immediately inform law enforcement officials. The school administrator reporting the incident to the police shall provide the law enforcement officials with all known information concerning the matter, including the identity of the pupil involved and notices that a violation of the Criminal Code may have occurred.

Any pupil found engaging in any of the foregoing prohibited activities will be subject to suspension and/or exclusion from school pursuant to existing laws of the Commonwealth (Act 26).

Assault:

A student may be suspended or expelled if the student commits an assault against a teacher, administrator, board member, or other employee who is acting within his/her duties and in a situation where his authority to act is apparent, or as a result of his/her relationship with the school.

All lockers and locks are and shall remain the property of the school.

CHAD reserves the right to authorize its employees to inspect a student's locker when such employee has reason to believe that the locker is improperly used for the storage of contraband, a substance or object the possession of which is illegal, or any material which poses a hazard to the safety, sanitation and good order of the school.

In the presence of another person a student's person and possessions may be searched by the school Head of School or his/her representative provided that the individual has reasonable grounds to suspect that the search will turn up evidence that the student has violated or is violating either the law or the rules of the school.

Substance Abuse:

CHAD recognizes that substance abuse and the misuse of alcohol are serious social problems that have far-reaching implications for both the user and the entire community.
